THURSDAY, AUGUST 15, 1861. THE DETY OF KENTUCKY. - Some of ou opponents have charged that we are not in favor of the neutrality of Kentucky except as a and Jefferson just before the late election. Those temporary and very brief policy, but the charge is not true. We want Lientucky to be neutral now, and neutral during the war, neutral not in name merely but in fact-illustrating her neutrality by having no participation as a State in the war that is raging around her, and asking and earnestly insisting that her position shall be respected. If Kentuckians or men living in Kentucky wish to fight in the armies of the United States, let them go and do so. If they wish to fight for the Confederate States. let them gratify their inclination if they can without violating the laws of the country to which they now owe allegiance. At the same time we are not willing to express an opinion of the Confederate States. We don't believe that any citizen of the United States can expatriate himself by going into the Southern Confederacy and swearing allegiance to it, or, that he can participate in its battles against the American flag without being guilty of treason. This is not the matter upon which we would now remark; what we wish to say is, that Kentuckians, on whichever side they may choose to tight, should scrupulously avoid any violation or even seeming violation of Kentucky men under white flags than under l'almettos. For ourselves we want no better, no other tiag Kentneky has been abused for her neutrality than the Star Spangled Banner-partly white by the States North, abused for it by the States South, abused for it by the disunionists within her own borders. Yet the plain trnth is that Kentneky's neutrality has been worth millions to the United States, worth millions to the Confederate States, and worth millions to herself. Tens of thousands everywhere deeply apprec'ate this truth. If Kentneky were now to depart from her position, it would be disastrous to herself and to all around her. She has averted and is averting from herself and others inteld and almost unimagined horrors, and she deserves the blessings of all men. In her great heart she is lovel to the Union, she considers it worth all the toil and blood and money that its preservation can cost, but she cannot fail to see clearly, that, situated as she is, she best subserves the vast interests of humanity and the Union and the Constitution by quietly vet resolutely and with deep and high determination keeping the stand she has assumed And we call upon all Union men in the State to stand by her firmly and in good faith. We Union men are impatient of neutrality, that they are burning to see Kentucky plunge with all her energies into the thickest of the conflict for the upholding of the glorious old hanner of the United States. We honor the real of such men, we appland their noble motives, but we carnestly appeal to them to abide by the decision which an overwhelming majority of the people of Kentucky have repeatedly and unequivocally rendered. We trust and believe they will do so. They cannot pursue a different course under existing circumstances without irrepareble mischief to the State and to the Union, fultilling the guilty wishes of their country's enemies, and grieving and disappointing and injuring her

We hear much of the military m of Union men in those counties of Kentucky which lie on the direct mad to Cumberland Gap. We have assumed, as we certainly think we have a right to do, that the movements in question are not made with a view to any act that could be construed as a departure from the principle and practice of Kentneky neutrality. Still we appeal to the friends engaged in those movements to be exceedingly careful what they do. Let them take no step not dictated by a full sense of the great responsiappeal to them to keep strictly on the deiensive. We feel assured that they will do this, and that they entertain no purpose, as charged by secessionists, of invading Tennessee or any United States." other State. We know that they deeply sympathize and justly sympathize with the oppressed and persecuted putriots of l'ast Tenossee, and we recognize their sympathy as honorable to their high and true hearts; but they must not enfler themselves to be betrayed by it into such acts as secessionists would seize upon as a pretent to make Kentucky the seat of war. We again stances. This course will benefit Kentucky

Magoffin is about to the inferior courts an appeal lies to the Suthe interior courts an appear to the Union musterings in Southeast Kentneky. But this Certainly he will not assume the power does not suit the revolutionary views of sperse the Union musterings. Such an secessionists. They would like to take to disperse the Union musterings. Such an attempted usurpation of despotic power would the law into their own hands, and because in do more harm than good. Would be then do as Governor Jackson, of Musouri, didwould be, hy a foolish and revolutionary act, involve Kentucky in a bloody war? Dare he do it? Let him be very cautious. We will aid him with all our power in appealing to the excited on both sides to do no act which can be construed into a violation of Kentucky neutrality, but we cannot enetain him in a usurpation of powers which he does'nt powers, He should remember that this whole subject is an exceedingly delicate one to manege. WHAT TENNESSEE SAYS OF THE BLOCK-ADI: - The Nashville Union has heard that the Government at Washington is about to give free permission for the transportation of "produce, bagging and rope, fabrics, & c., ic," over the Louisville and Nashville railroad. One would naturally expect the Union to rejoice at the prospect of the raising of a "hlockade," which it has been denouncing so fierely and even threatening to raise at the their Government have a man or a dollar for point of the havonet, but, so far from this, the Union waxes absolutely wrathful. It says: Will our authorities permit it? Will they al-low Lincoln to ship Western wheat, corn, flour

So Tennessee tells us, through her main or-

manding with a voice of thunder, that our end of the railroad should be kept open for provisions, yet, if it be opened, she will shut her end of it, not allowing the provisions to cross her line. She now discovers that lientuckians are "alien enemies," and warns her to be sure, but also partly red and blue. She undertakes to let her people know now, that all such as any gentlemen with white flags over their of them as have received the provisious shipheads or over their horses' heads in all the ped from here in such quantities and with such iery activity are guilty of a high offence against the authorities of the Southern Contry and playing into the hands of the Southern federacy, and that, if they repeat the crime Confederacy. The ovster business fortund one of the staples, hundreds of men cuning there to witch and plant the bivalves, which are in many instances transplanted on the Northern heaches, and it d a ready sale in our markets. Before the relieflem Hampton numbered about two thousand inhabitants. Among the attractions in the place were the Military Academy, the churches, several hotels, and numerous stores.

What a desolution it now presents. One hundred and fifty-six years was consumed in building up this pisce, and the labors of a century and e balf are swept away in a few hours. Such, however, are the stern realities of war.

PARADE OF THE STATE GEARD.—The comparies composing the Second Regiment of the Kantucky Stata Guard paraded yesterday in honor of Lieutenant Colonel J. Morton Morris. The fellowing companies joined in the damonstration Company A, Citizan Guards, Capl. Biggs; Con pany B, Citizen Guarde, Lieut. Clay; Clay Chasseurs, Capt. Jacob; Hunt Guards, Lieut. Zanon Nawcomb Greys, Lieut. Tucker; Gay Guards, Capt. Rickatte; Louisvilla Zouaves, Lieut. Montalm; National Blues, Capt. Clarke; Johnsto Riffes, Capt. Johnston; Jackson Guards, Captain O'Conner; Kentucky Riflemen, Captai McGill; Magoffin Greys, Captain Boiser Keatucky Rangers, Ceptain Ormshy, and tha Louisville Battery of three gone. The regiment was under command of Lieutenant Col. J. Il orie, and Major A. L. Symmer: Li 1. tenant S. S. Craik, of the Citizen Guarde, acting as Adjutant. There were about three bundred and fifty men in the ranks, who gave evidence of fina discipline. There were two circumstances connected with the display, the existence of which is to be regretted. It was a subject of remark that neither the regiment nor any of the companies liore a flag of any description. They carried guns which were furnished by a loyal State of the Union, last bore no evidence in the form of colors that three guns would be used in defence of the the rights of that State in the Union. We are informed, also, that the members of some of the companies saluted miniature representations of the American flag, when displayed by ladies and children on the line of march, but we are gratified to learn that the demonstration was promptly auppressed and rebuked by those in command.

The battle near Springfield, Mo., between the Federal and Confederale forces must have been a terrific one. And most nobly did the Faileral troops, under Lyon and Sigel, sustain themselves. We doubt not that the loss of the Confederate troops was 2,1800 or 3,000. They must have been badly trippled, else 27,900 men might 8,000 against tham. The accessionists pretend to think that the rebels gained a victory, wish is father to the thought. They think that because the Federal troops fell Sigel's retreat at Carthage, and they should remember also that in the recent battle Sigel did him,—that he became violently enamered of her, not fall back until after ha had driven back the and that this was the secret of his desire to gat Confederates. They had better beware of Sigel's rid of Major Murray. The explanations were reretreats. If Lyon and Sigel had had an equal force the Confederate forces would have been or was released. It is certainly a very extraor driven out of Missouri. As it is, McCallo ugh's army was whipped by the Federal army, small as does not find its only home in Paris. it was. A measenger from Springfield to Col. Wyman arrived at Kolla at I o'clock P. M. on Sunday, having left Springfield on Friday night. Lvon's ailvanced guard on Thursday met tha rebels' advance and had a fight. He drove them Into the woods. The federal cavalry took a position on the north side of the Little Yeek road, to call the anenny mut, but they failed to respond. porter of the 11th: Soma excitement has risen among our citizens in reference to an encampment of recruits for the United States army, exid to be organized in the county of Garrard. As is usual with our opponents, every attempt is made to excite projude and preside by the control of the county of the country o nonts, every attempt is made to excite prijud. and rassion by misrepresenting the intentions of the Union party, and particularly of such Union men as have connected themselves with this movement. We have been assured by some if the principal officers in charge of the encampment that there is no intention on their part, or in the part of the Government, to use these men for aggressive purposes, either in the invasion of Termessee or any other State, or to send arms or munitione of war into any other State by their agence. The reason given for the establishment of the camp is the defence of our State from an apprehended invasion of Kentucky by Tennessee, which State has for months past, been concentrating her troops in thousands along our border. We believe the apprehension to be entirely groundless, and the troops removed as soon as the supposed necessity for their presence has disappeared.

We may add that we regret that any step of appeared.

We may add that we regret that any step of this character has been taken without consultation with the Union men of the State, who are fully competent to protect the neutrality of the State, and mean to do so. Whenever the necessity exists for making preparation to repel invasion, or suppress insurrection, every men will be in favor of it. Until then the Union men of Kentucky will claim the right to protect the State as they have done fully heretofore.

BONES FOR RE-ENLISTMENT.-The following is the 12th section of the act passed by Congress. regulating the re-enlistment of volunteers in the Federel army:

Nex day at 5 o'clock the army received orders to take one day'e rations and prepere for marching, and the greater pert of the force under Gen. Lyon left Springtleld at 7 o'clock. Sigel was left behind with 1500 men. Lyon's division marched about seven miles in the direction of the enemy and rested several hours; at 6 o'clock on Satur day morning resumed march; marchul three miles and came upon the enemy, who had chosen admirable gound, covered with brushwood, corn fields, and ravines. Sigel was preparing to leave with his whole command. He had come in from the field of hattle a little before dark on the evening previous. Sigel was in the fight from the heginning. The plan of battle was for Sigel to attack the left wing of the enemy, Major Sturges the right, and Lvon the centre. Only a few companies of the Home Guard were left in Springfield. Additional Particulars of the Battle of Spring

Bolta, Mo., Ang. 13.

The following additional account of the battle near Springfield Is furnished by an eya-witness who left Springfield on Sunday morrlag and came through to this place on horseback:

Our army marched ont of Springfield on Friday evening only 5,000 etrong, the Home Guarder emailing in Springfield. Our forces alsoft on the prairie a portion of the night, and about sonries on Saturday morning drove in the ontpests of the enemy, and soon afterwards the engagement hecame general. The attack was made in two columns under Lyon and Sturges, Gen. Sigel leading a llanking force of about a thousand men and four guns on the south of the enemy's camp.

The fight raged from sunrise in the morning till 1 or 2 "eleck in the efternoon.

The rebels in overwhelming numbers charged Capt. Totten's battery three several times, but were repulsed with great shaughter.

were repulsed with great elaughter.

How Gen. Lyon Died.

Gen. Lyon fell early in the day. He had been previously wourded in the leg and had a horse shot from under him. The Colonel of one of the Kansas regiments having become disabled, the boys cried ont—"General, you come and lead us." He did so, and at once putting himself in front, and while cheering the men on to the charge, received a hullet in the left breast and fell from his horse. He was asked if he was hurt, and replied ". o, not much," and in a few minutes expired without a struggle.

Gen. Sigel had a very severa etruggle and lost three of his four guns. His artillery horses were shet in their harness, and the pleces disabled. He endsavored to hand them off with a number of prisoners he had taken, hix was finally compelled to abandon them, first, howaver, spiking tha guns and disabling the cririages.

The Rebels Fire thels Wagons and Retreat in

There were rumors on the field that McCullough was killed, but the rebels desired it. On Saturday right Dr. Moncher and others of our army went back with ambulances to the battle tield from Springfield, to see about the killed and wounded. They found the enomy on the islell, and were considerately treated. Gen. Ly one body had been treated with great respect and was brought back with some of the wounded to Springfield. Major Sturgis took command in the battle field after the death of Gen. Lyon, and Gen. Sigel took command after the battle.

The sense was in placed at 2,000 killed and wounded at the control of the sense was placed at 2,000 killed and wounded. The enemy we captured 160 horses. One of the enemy's regiments carried two (luga, the Confederate and the Stars and Stripes.

Lien, Sigel marched back to Springfield in good order. After perfecting his arrangements, gathering the baggage, blowing up what proder he could not varry, and destroving, other property. Which he did not wish should fall into the hands of the enemy, he left Springfield and was on Sunday night encamped J miles this side of that place, the enemy not parsuing. The only hostility observed during the day was the firing of a musket from a distance at the rear guard. Gen. Sigel was condient he could have held Springfield against the force they had engaged, but ha was fearful of reinforcements to the enemy from the Southwest, and that his lins of communication to Rolla would be ent off.

Gen. Lyon began the attack upon the receipt of intelligence that the enemy were expecting reinforcement from Hardee'c column, which was approaching from the eoutheast. A portion of the artillety of the anemy was admirably served. Their infantty was also very severe.

The Springfield line Guards were not in the fight. They, with large numbers of the citizens of Springfield, ara in Sigel's camp. It was thought that Sigel would fall back no further than Lebanon, where reinforcements would meet him.
